My dear Sir,

It is now six weeks since I returned you the Memorial, and your silence inclines me to suspect that you have nothing pleasant to communicate to me.

When you have five minutes to spare, I shou feel most grateful to you for a line, be your information favourable or otherwise, even though

I should have to add it to my numerous list of disappointments in this life.

I trust you will excuse my troubling you so often, when you consider that the affair is of vital importance to me in my present situa-

Your Great Kindness encourages me to ask you still another favor, which is to make enquiries among your numerous acquaintan-respecting the Rev^d^ John Jennings Dean of St Margar Westminster. I am interest in knowing whether he is a brother of the widow of the late Canon Melville, who died some few years since.

Mr Evans and family desire to be kindly remembered to you, and bid me convey their thanks for all your kindness to me, hoping me to remain

My dear Sir
Yours very sincerely
John Keats del Evans
